October 31, 2015

Dear Friends,

It has been an exciting week for us here in Kansas! Go Royals! Yes, we are die hard Royals fans here and our whole family has been enjoying watching the World Series games. Don't ask if we stayed up to watch all 14 innings of Game 1 either!

One thing I am loving this week is a freebie I downloaded! Kari from Stone Soup for Five has a wonderful free download of her Ephesians Doodle and Journal Your Way Through the Bible ebook! It is an amazing way to keep a Bible study journal. Last night I bought a composition notebook and nice pens and began. Fun! You can read all about this in my blog post.

Besides having technical issues with a video I tried to record, it has been a good week. Fall is here for good and I actually had to put a coat on the other day. I just love this time of year and I'm really looking forward to the holidays!

Hope you had a good week! Now let's dig into this week's Inspirations!

1. Prepare 15 THM Freezer Meals in 90 Minutes!

I love having freezer meals already prepared because it makes a quick and easy dinner when a day gets a little too busy. Here is a wonderful post explaining how to prepare 15 THM freezer meals in 90 minutes! She has recipes, directions, and shopping lists all done for you. Go check it out here!

A new recipe I can't wait to try is this Taco Crunch! I bought the ingredients yesterday and plan to mix up a batch to have for lunch today. Yum!

2. Are you getting into the spirit of the holidays yet?

I thought it would be fun to share some holiday spirit with you today! Enjoy!

3. New grammar curriculum coming soon!

I have been enjoying following Melanie on Periscope and was so excited to hear that she was writing a grammar curriculum! I took a look at the samples and they look amazing. The first level in Grammar Galaxy is supposed to be available by the end of the year I think. So hop on over to the Grammar Galaxy site and sign up to be notified when the curriculum is available! (If Melanie doesn't have the sign up form up yet, you can click here to sign up in the meantime!)

4. Do you enjoy doing Jumble puzzles?

We don't subscribe to any newspaper, but the other day my daughter bought a paper so she could cut out some of the Kansas City Royals articles (Go Royals!). Well, my husband started doing the Jumble puzzle and I found out that he used to do them all the time when he worked a different job and they had access to the daily newspaper at work. So I decided to look online to see if there were any Jumble puzzle books I could add to his Christmas list. But what I came across in my search was the Jumble website where you can print the last month's puzzles for free! They even have Jumble puzzles for kids!

5. Today is the last day to save on this Magic School Bus Science Club membership!

Grab this incredibly fun 12-month subscription of Ms. Frizzle-approved, whacky experiments delivered to your doorstep for award-winning science FUN! I am seriously considering purchasing this to do with my kids. They love doing experiments and we have not done a lot of science this year yet.

Right now (through the end of October only) you can get this subscription at 50% off and you get FREE shipping today within the continental US. Grab it now if you are interested!

6. What I am reading this week!

I am still digging deep into two books: A Confident Heart by Rene Swope and Money Making Mom by Crystal Paine. I am learning so much from both of these books and recommend them both!

Recently I was introduced to Kari at Stone Soup for Five. She was in a workshop I was watching and she was talking about her bullet journal. Well, I went to her site to look around and was amazed at all the wonderful ideas she has for doing journals! I was especially intrigued with how she does her Bible journals.... [Read post...]
